bility, pay for performance, Race to the Top--these are all topics directly affecting our profession. What should you do? What are your rights? Who will come to your aid? These are questions I ask myself and I'm sure you do too.

Since serving on the Executive Board I've become more knowledgeable about these educational issues. I want to continue to be the voice that serves the interests of the members of Sussex County. Now more than ever, longevity and historical reference are essential. Knowing our past, the battles we've fought and won, will measure and dictate the future of our profession.

Let me continue to serve you by remaining on the Executive Board for another term. Thank you for your support.
