

A plea for to donate some of your sick leave days

Help out Molly Anderson's Mom

On May 28th Molly Anderson was diagnosed with Acute lymphoblastic leukemia Tcell. Her Mom, Kristen Anderson, is a teacher at PS DuPont Elementary School in Wilmington, part of the Brandywine School District.

Brandywine colleagues about Molly and her Mom during the August inservice days when Amy Myers came to request staff donate time. Kristen is now in greater need of having time to help her daughter through a long treatment program.

You can read Molly's journal and learn more about her at CaringBridge.org – just click here: http://www.caringbridge.org/visit/mollyanderson)

For example, on Oct. 26th, they wrote, "Yeah, we are home...in time to get settled in for the Phillis game. Molly did great, a true rock star. She cleared her methotrexate levels early, I think due to the many munchkins she ate (we will not discuss it with the nutritionist...but I think they actually helped) Molly had a great time having Savannah as a roomie. Savannah was very patient with Molly who would not leave her alone. Savannah has such a contagious laugh, it is impossible to not laugh with her. I think it was also wonderful for Maggie to see someone her age fighting the fight. Please send her your super power thoughts....she wants to get out early on Tues."

Please consider donating some of your days – for every two days you donate, Krisen receives one more day when she can be with her daughter.

How? Check with your building secretary for the needed form. As we approach the holiday seasons now is a great time to give to the Anderson family. Please let me know if you need help.
